

April 2014

Finally the snow is melting! The sun seems to be warming things up a bit, It's still a bit cooler than it's supposed be. It seems people have had enough of being indoors and the number of people coming into the store has increased considerably. Lots of people coming in looking for ideas for a project, anything to keep their minds off the cold! I have talked to quite a few people that are busy making items and planning for shows they are going to this summer.

I got the spring bug a couple weeks ago myself, so we cleaned the entire showroom, that project takes two of us almost a week to complete, but I sure like the way it looks when the glass is shining and the windows are clear.

This month the pattern is a spring tulip. It's a simple pattern, doesn't take long to make and is a nice gift to brighten someone's spring and add some color to a "brown" time of the year.

I am going to keep the offer of an additional 20% off this month on all of the books already marked down by 50% on the closeout book rack. I would like to eliminate that book rack completely, so if you want a great deal on a wide variety of good books just no longer in production, this is the month to stock up!

New this month; finally a few new books are coming. Seems like there haven't been any new books for months, I have 4 new books on order; there is a new bird book and a new book of leaves that look pretty nice. Also there is a new book on CD I am interested in checking that out. It seems that more books are coming out on CD and now they are starting to become more interactive where you can alter sizes of the pattern before printing.

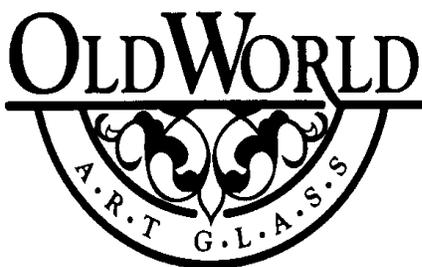

Classes; the new Monday night beginner class started last week. And the day class starts this week.

The open table time class is still on Wednesday nights, Remember you don't have to come every week or stay all night you only pay for the time you are here and the materials you use.
